KIDS FOUND the frolicking at Fillmore's Frolics a wind-whipping delight this week. The rides and concessions prospered in true summer weather.

It will take teamwork . . .

It is apparent that neither one man in the White House nor one party, politically speaking, can solve today's problems confronting the nation and also pull it up by its boot straps to regain the global prestige which is gradually slipping away.

It will be up to all Americans, regardless of race, color or creed, to accomplish this job in the months and years ahead.

This country seems to be trapped in a quagmire of indecision, uncertainty and even hesitancy on the part of some of its leaders and the rank and file of many of its citizens.

The war in Vietnam, racial violence, student protests, impending higher taxes and the national economic strain all tend to alarm and bewilder the average, hard-working, law-abiding American men and women.

In all this turmoil and stress it is possible that many of us have forgotten or turned away from the church and religion?

Our founding fathers were devout churchmen as the pages of history have recorded. There was hardly a momentous decision reached without prayer at some time during the sessions held in the formation of the 13 original colonies, the forerunners of our great Republic.

During those dark days at Valley Forge, George Washington prayed to the Almighty to guide him and his cold, hungry and tattered revolutionary troops.

It has been authentically reported that Abraham Lincoln on numerous occasions during the Civil War, in the privacy of his chambers, also called on God for guidance and wisdom.

Hailed for years as the most powerful, most prosperous and most progressive nation on the face of the earth, it is indeed a sad fact that in many of the world's capitols the United States is being scoffed at and laughed at by the very people this country has aided in many, many ways in war and peace. There are definitely a number of countries that ridicule our capitalistic, free enterprise system and fervently hope that it will not survive.

Thus, we are all faced with a grave dilemma. But now is the time to start striking back.

Perhaps, in the days ahead if our present and future governmental officials and lawmakers will return to the religious beliefs and faith of the signers of the Declaration of Independence the way may be more certain and more bright.

It will not be an easy task, but, with the help of the Supreme Being and with all Americans working together as a consecrated team, the job can be done and the United States will continue to be the "melting pot" for world immigrants; the greatest nation on the face of the globe, and always and always "the land of the free and the home of the brave" --JZ.

Rock wins Demo governor's spot

By HORTENSE MYERS
INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Robert L. Rock overcame the opposition of the Democratic state organization today to defeat former House Speaker Richard C. Bodine for the Indiana gubernatorial nomination.

Rock won at the party's state convention by a delegate vote of 953 to 951 in an extremely close race undecided until the last few reports went to the auditing forces from the voting machines where the delegates cast their ballots.

The outcome was an upset which appeared to give new strength to the ebbing movement in favor of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy in the presidential race. Rock was considered a supporter of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in the May 7 presidential primary which Kennedy won, with Governor Branigin second and McCarthy third.

Bodine was the candidate of the party leadership from state chairman Gordon St. Angelo and Governor Branigin on down. Two days ago, Rock bitterly charged unfair treatment from St. Angelo in the chairman's efforts to nominate Bodine.

Despite Bodine's loss, his running-mate, Marion County chairman James W. Beatty was nominated for lieutenant governor, also by a close vote. It was Beatty 940, Spencer Schniatter of Madison 914.

Mrs. Betty Sheek of Franklin was nominated for state auditor, beating Joseph Farina of LaPorte, 962 to 583, with Mrs. Mary Mullenberg of Columbus third at 291.

Myers seeks answers from constituent views

"I would like to have your views on some of the most important issues facing our nation." These were the words of Congressman John Myers in a letter mailed to residents of the 7th district this week.

Included in the letter was a questionnaire asking for the opinions of voters on major issues facing the government and the people today.

Questions ranged from the war in Vietnam to the success of the war on poverty.

Myers offered several choices for a peace settlement in Vietnam: guaranteed political independence of South Vietnam, a coalition government, and the unconditional withdrawal of allied forces.

He asked voters in the seventh district what should be done if peace negotiations should fail. The selection of alternatives included: resuming and intensifying full-scale air attacks, increasing U.S. troop commitments or the gradual reduction of U.S. troops commitments and the shifting of more responsibility to the forces of South Vietnam.

He asked if the U.S. should continue trade policies with nations aiding North Vietnam.

Other questions were as follows:

"Do you support the Administration's proposed increase in taxes?"

"Do you believe that Federal spending on domestic programs should be reduced?"

"Do you think the War on Poverty has been successful in helping the poor?"

In discussing crime and violence, Myers asked, "Would you permit the police under court supervision to use wire tapping and other electronic devices to help the poor?"

DPU finds disadvantaged hard to get into program

Not enough disadvantaged high school students can be found to fill a special program designed for them and paid for by DePauw University.

This is the state of things as the University prepares Sunday to inaugurate a three-pronged summer session for disadvantaged, academic risks, and early-starting college students.

"We have had more difficulty than we expected in recruiting disadvantaged students for the summer program," Dr. James Findlay, professor of history said.

"And as a matter of fact, we've had problems too drawing students from suburban areas who fall into the academic risk category."

The disadvantaged students who are coming will receive a full $500 scholarship. It will underwrite tuition, fees, books, room and board and some incidental expenses. The others will pay their own way.

day, for the top spot in state government at the November election.

The convention was not streamlined like the GOP session three days ago, when the keynote address was given the night before, and there were many formalities to get out of the way before voting on the three races—governor, lieutenant governor and state auditor.

The remaining 12 candidates for 15 spots on the state ticket were unopposed and automatically nominated.

The State Jr. Leader Conference which was held at the State 4-H Center June 11 to 14 brought many happy faces to the Putnam County 4-H delegates. Debbie Alcorn, Bainbridge; Nancy Arnold, Belle Union; Marie McKee, Greencastle; Stephanie Vaughn, Belle Union; Kathy Niles, Russellville; Teddy Brewer, Greencastle; and David Carrington, Russellville, returned home from Conference Friday, June 14. All were saying that this was the greatest conference or meeting they had ever been to. State Jr. Leader Conference is sponsored by the Kiwanis Clubs of Indiana. The Conference is a leadership training meeting held for the outstanding Jr. Leaders throughout the State of Indiana. This conference develops a close knit group of delegates. They said that when it was time to leave, nearly all of them were in tears, hating to see their friends leave to go back to their homes. The conference also develops and inspires other things besides friendship. It is amazing to see the leadership development that these boys and girls bring home.

The conference is divided into districts and the Putnam County group belongs to the Shades District. A boy and a girl is elected from each district to be a representative on the council. Therefore, this means that Putnam County has half of the Shades membership to the State Jr. Leader Council. Teddy, joins the long list of Jr. Leader Council members, including Carolyn Torr, Becky McFarland, Vicki Judy, Allan Sutherland, Jim Albin of recent years. Putnam County has a long list of council members.

The Purdue Round-Up will be held next week, June 25 to 27. This is a three day achievement program for outstanding 4-H'ers in each county. There will be approximately 3,000 boys and girls there throughout the State of Indiana. Those that will be attending from Putnam County are Shirley Albright, Reelsville; Peggy Cash, Fillmore; DeVonna Eckert, Clinton Twp.; Donna Fordice, Russellville; Joyce Hurst, Reelsville; Beverly Halton, Belle Union; Nelson Ford, Roachdale; Ronnie Maddox, Greencastle; Dale McCaughey, Russellville; Joel Brookshire, Roachdale; Kent Brattain, Greencastle; David Bruner, Greencastle; Kenny Carrington, Russellville; Steve Cash, Fillmore; Lannie Clifford, Belle Union; Roddy Ray, Cloverdale; Mike Rissler, Reelsville; Anita Perkins, Roachdale; Carol Robertson, Bainbridge; Judy Rowings, Greencastle; Pam Vaughn, Belle Union; Terry Walker, Greencastle; Vicki Wallace, Bainbridge; Ena Whitaker, Cloverdale; Linda New, Greencastle; and Jr. Leaders Becky McFarland and Steve Albin. There is a very outstanding program at Round-Up this year, including Roger Ward and Tony Fountain.

A State Jr. Leader Council is elected at the conference. This is composed of 40 Jr. Leaders throughout the State of Indiana. Putnam County again has a member to State Jr. Leader Council. Teddy Brewer of Greencastle was elected to the council this year. Others nearly made the council. Marie McKee was first alternate for the girls, and Stephanie Vaughn second alternate for the girls. David Carrington was first alternate for the boys.

My goodness, I thought practically everyone dumped hot charcoal briquettes into any type of air-tight metal container and slapped on a metal lid.

The coals extinguish almost immediately for lack of oxygen.

Then when you're ready to reuse the coals, open the container and shake it a little to knock off the excess ashes.

The remaining unburned coals can be used at an enormous saving.

help crime of violence and subversion?"

And facing the issue of riots and civil disorder, the following policies were presented: enforcement of existing laws; strict handling of rioters and demonstrators by police and courts; and more programs for improving slum areas.

All told there were 12 questions dealing with crucial factors in the 20th century society of America.

Myers stressed the need for cooperation between the people of the seventh district and himself in formulating a "better and stronger America."

He concluded by saying, "If we can every be of service to you, please do not hesitate to contact our office."

Fishermen can use a large thread spool and a pencil to remove the line from a reel in order to straighten out the line or clean and grease the reel.

Place the pencil through the hole in the spool and wind line from the reel onto the spool. Then when ready to place line back on the reel, hold the ends of the pencil with spool between your hands. Just allow it to turn as you wind the line back on the reel.

You should recruit a helper to hold the spool and pencil for you. A wife is a very handy person to have around at a time like this!

through high school guidance counselors and through other means. Of course the best way will be the word that our summer 'alumni' will communicate back to their friends," Findlay said.

Fontaine said all high schools in Indiana, Ohio and Illinois were circularized and that personal recruiting had been conducted in Indianapolis and Terre Haute. "We have made a conscious effort to recruit people in high schools where minority groups are in large numbers," Findlay added.

The session's geographic composition is pretty diverse. Enrollments have been recorded from Florida, Connecticut, Texas, and Colorado as well as from several Midwestern states.

One of the aspects of the program that the coordinators are particularly pleased about is the prospect of having a representative group of "academic risk." These are students to whom DePauw has issued this challenge, according to Fontaine: "Prove to us you can do college-level work and we'll admit you to the university on probationary status." Doing "college-level work" would mean making at least C's or B's this summer, Fontaine explained.

Some of these students test well on College Board exams but produce C's and D's in high school. These are students who have some orientation toward college and considerable verbal ability, but haven't done well enough to meet stringent admission requirements.

Yet a third group is that which will be on campus to get its academic feet wet ahead of its

September classmates. The expectation for this fully qualified group is that a reduced summer load may make the college transition less harrowing academically. Many of this segment will be juniors whose summer credits will be held in escrow should they decide to enroll at DePauw or elsewhere in 1969. The rest will be graduating seniors who will come to the campus in September, 1968. Their credit also will be held over.

The curriculum for this diverse group includes world history, English composition, sociology, speech, psychology, reading techniques, and physical education. The students may elect two subjects plus physical education. In some cases certain courses, reading techniques for example, will be strongly recommended.

Findlay said the session's teachers--all university faculty members--have been urged to use any new teaching techniques that seem promising. Already planned are history seminars in the library where historical data will be at their fingertips, programmed instruction in composition, and the use of television taped replays to do critiques on speeches.

Weekends will be devoted to cultural or recreational activities or involvement with social action groups.

Assistant Dean of the University Dr. Dwight Ling said DePauw's faculty approved the program to permit the school to develop its own approach to what is needed for two of these types of students. He said he believes the Government will be encouraging private schools to do more in the area of aiding culturally disadvantaged students and academic risk students.

"In addition to helping these students, the summer program will give our faculty valuable experience in teaching academic risks and disadvantaged youngsters. It's an area where we can meet a pressing contemporary problem and help in a small way some deserving young people," Dr. Ling said.

Book gains for library

NEW YORK (UPI)—William Manchester, author of the controversial book "The Death of a President," and Harper & Row, the publisher have donated $750,000 to the Kennedy Memorial Library from profits accruing from sale of the book. Cass Canfield, a senior editor of Harper & Row told United Press International today the contribution was "in accordance with arrangements previously made with the Kennedy family."

Even before it went into print in 1967, the book created one of the greatest furors ever recorded in the annals of American publishing. Canfield was chairman of Harper & Row's board at the time.

Although Robert F. Kennedy had publicly announced that Manchester had been authorized "to write an extensive account describing the events of and surrounding the death of President Kennedy on Nov. 22, 1963," Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy brought suit against Look magazine.

Demos deserve 4 more years

By EUGENE J. CADOU
INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—Gov. Branigin told the Democratic state convention Friday that the party deserves to continue in office in Indiana because of the record of his administration.

Branigin spoke after he was chosen temporary convention chairman. Rep. Ray J. Madden, Gary, dean of the Democratic delegation in Congress, is permanent chairman.

The governor said the delegates had "an awesome responsibility because for a few precious hours you are the engineers of the political destiny of the Democratic Party."

Branigin outlined definite accomplishments of his tenure but took pride in his vetoes of many bills.

"One shudders to think what the financial plight of our state would be, had not bills authorizing additional millions to be spent had not been vetoed," he said.

He added that, nevertheless, the state's general fund balance has "shrunk to a dangerous level."

Great progress in the difficult area of human rights has been made during the administration of Matthew E. Welsh and Branigin, he said.

"The enactment and enforcement of well-drafted laws have aided materially in solving some of the thorny problems of discrimination, in public accommodations, in housing, in employment," Branigin said.

"This is not to say that we have achieved our goals—indeed not. The war against prejudice and hate may be with us always. What does it profit us to live where we want to, only to find we are unwanted and unwelcome when we live there?" Branigin said.

But Branigin added that everyone should be convinced that "the citizens demand safety from harm in the streets and in their homes."

Branigin said the Indiana State Police Department of 800 men plus a civilian staff of 400 is the most effective force in the nation.

"In tornado or flood, in riot threat or in support of local police, the department has done a superb job," the governor said. "Increased pay and fringe benefits have added to the attraction of this employment."

Inspection Aids Police
Additional weapons of the police in reducing the highway slaughter are mandatory vehicle inspection, motor truck control and inspection and a stepped up educational program, Branigin said.

Highway department progress in safety also has included eliminating 200 narrow bridges and the design of dual lanes on U.S. 31 north to South Bend, on U.S. 41 from Decker to U.S. 52, and on Indiana 37 from Indianapolis to Bedford, the governor said.

"Also, in business, we have witnessed enormous growth of the steel mills in the Calumet, the great industrial development along the Ohio River and the influx of new industry in virtually every city and town in the state," Branigin said. "Our own port on Lake Michigan is nearing its opening and bids fair to be the greatest economic boom in our history."

Branigin added that tourism is a developing industry in Indiana. It has been aided by new bridges over the Ohio River at Mauckport and Cannelton, started under Governor Matthew E. Welsh and the bridge program will be enhanced, according to Branigin.

The governor admitted that some public schools are in financial distress and the number will grow next year.

Good bidding will get you to the best contract a very high percentage of the time. Every bid you make sends your partner a message. He then attempts to reply in kind, so that your side may exchange the maximum amount of information.

After these messages have been delivered, either one player or the other determines the final contract.

Thus, when South opens the bidding with a heart, he announces the values for an opening bid, though he does not indicate at once how strong or weak he is in either high cards or distribution.

North's raise to two hearts is much more precise. It states that he has from 6 to 9 points, which may or may not include distributional values.

The two spade bids shows values beyond a minimum opening bid, since otherwise South would pass. It furthermore proposes spades as trump in the event that North has longer spades than hearts.

Three spades guarantees four-card support and indicates a willingness to contract for game. Four spades ends the auction.

There is one very serious drawback to such lengthy and precise exchanges of information. While partners are relaying messages back and forth for their own edification, their opponents listen in, and what they overhear frequently helps them to find the best defense.

West took full advantage of the bidding in this deal to find the killing lead. He began with the ace and another heart, and declarer could not prevent West from giving East a heart ruff later on to defeat the contract a trick.

West reasoned that North-South were sure to have at least eight hearts for the opening heart bid and immediate raise. This meant that East had at most a singleton or doubleton heart and that he could therefore ruff a heart either immediately or eventually.

Had South been less scientific in the bidding and jumped directly to four hearts over two, he would have made the contract.
